

COASTAL BIRD CONSERVATION- Photos from the Impact Zone: BP Deepwater Horizon Gulf Oil Spill 2010

M. Zdravkovic CBC/Conservian©

Snowy Plover chick separated from family by oil-prevention boom, FL panhandle, 5/9/2010

M. Zdravkovic CBC/Conservian©

Helicopters and booms in beach-nesting bird habitat, Southwest pass, LA 6/8/2010

M. Durkin CBC/Conservian©

M. Durkin CBC/Conservian©

S. Liptay CBC/Conservian©

M. Zdravkovic CBC/Conservian©

Pre-spill impacts: ORV damage and disturbance in beach-nesting bird habitat, FL, AL& LA

M. Durkin CBC/Conservian©

Clean-up crew: ORV-caused damage to beach-nesting bird habitat, FL, panhandle, 6/26/10

M. Durkin CBC/Conservian©

Post landfall impacts: ORV ruts deep enough to trap young chicks, FL, panhandle, 6/26/10

S. Liptay CBC/Conservian©

Oiled tidal pool weeks after landfall, Grand Isle, LA 6/10/2010

M. Zdravkovic CBC/Conservian©

Oiled beach, South Pass, MS delta, LA 6/8/2010

S. Liptay CBC/Conservian©

Washed up boom on beach near Southwest pass, MS delta, LA 6/8/2010

S. Liptay CBC/Conservian©

Thick mats of oil remain on beaches four weeks after landfall, South Pass, LA 6/7/2010

M. Zdravkovic CBC/Conservian©

Oiled beach Grand Isle, LA 6/5/2010

Oiled female Wilson's Plover at nest in front of oil boom, Southwest pass, LA 6/8/2010

For more on CBC work on the Gulf coast go to Coastalbird.org

Oiled male Wilson's Plover, South Pass, MS delta, LA 6/7/2010